GREETINGS

The word “enjoyment” intentionally appears in the middle of our mission statement. It is an important word. The root of the word enjoyment is “joy.” Joy is one of my favorite words because it describes a state of emotion where one feels great delight or happiness caused by something exceptionally good or satisfying. We need more joy in the world and when we do things right, Meijer Gardens uses horticulture, sculpture, the natural environment and the arts to help bring joy to people.

Frederik Meijer Gardens & Sculpture Park promotes the enjoyment, understanding and appreciation of gardens, sculpture, the natural environment and the arts.

It has taken many contributions to grow Meijer Gardens into what is now widely recognized as a world-class art and horticultural attraction. Fred and Lena Meijer and the Meijer family gave us our mission statement, financial gifts and inspiration to be such a place. The community continues to respond in a profound and generous way, offering gifts and advocacy to help sustain and grow us. We have a group of loyal, generous, hard-working and extremely talented volunteers who come out and actively bring joy to others. My colleagues dedicate their careers to our mission and inspire me every day with their talents and dedication.

In 2019 we opened the exhibition called, Rebecca Louise Law: The Womb. The exhibition was extremely well received. Using dried flowers, Law created a sculpture of “The Womb.” Many volunteers helped Law gather flowers and “string” them together using thin copper wire. A million flowers transformed the James and Shirley Balk Gallery into a special place of immersive art, beauty and meaningful discovery. The exhibition was a perfect example of all the factors that make Meijer Gardens possible coming together to produce a memorable experience, bringing joy to people.

The performing arts staged in a unique and beautiful one-of-kind sculpture garden also brings joy to people. The Frederik Meijer Gardens Amphitheater is home to 40 shows annually. Our popular Fifth Third Bank Summer Concerts at Meijer Gardens draw thousands of people to enjoy nationally recognized performing artists showcasing their talents. Frequently, a performer will comment on how he or she has never performed in a more beautiful and inspiring place. Our Tuesday Evening Music Club shows, which are free with admission, highlight the finest performing artists from West Michigan. This year included a performance by the Grand Rapids Ballet that was stunning.

These are just two of the thousands of reasons to come out and visit the place you help build and sustain. Each time you choose to support us through membership, the annual fund, the Great Gardens Party, the Christmas Cabaret, our capital campaign or being an advocate for us in the community, you are helping to bring joy to others. We sincerely appreciate your generous support.

Gratefully,

David S. Hooker
President and CEO
Our gardens delighted guests year-round, from spring blossoms and butterflies to the winter wonderland of holiday traditions.

LENA MEIJER TROPICAL CONSERVATORY
In 2016 the Lena Meijer Tropical Conservatory received a much-needed upgrade in lighting. This 15,000-square-foot tropical garden is a guest favorite. The lighting installation highlights the beauty of this space for evening visitors with a renewed nighttime ambiance. This lighting upgrade also included secondary maintenance lighting that allows our staff and volunteers greater options for upkeep during early morning and evening time frames.

FRED & DOROTHY FICHTER BUTTERFLIES ARE BLOOMING
We welcomed more than 181,917 guests for our most popular annual horticulture exhibition, Fred & Dorothy Fichter Butterflies Are Blooming. Over 7,000 tropical butterflies took flight in the tropical conservatory. This beloved exhibition also included an educational display of Michigan native Monarch caterpillars in the Grace F. Jarecki Seasonal Display Greenhouse, family activities in the Lena Meijer Children’s Garden and member events like Night of the Butterflies.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS & MORE!
A sensory feast of color and culture, the popular Chrysanthemums & More! exhibition welcomed more than 63,553 guests. Thousands of chrysanthemums featured larger-than-life blooms, indoors and out, along with cabbage, kale, pumpkins and gourds. Events like Mum Day drew families to enjoy interactive activities, tours, demonstrations, and visits with our professional resident horticulturalists.

METRO HEALTH CHRISTMAS & HOLIDAY TRADITIONS
The enchanting Metro Health Christmas & Holiday Traditions exhibition drew more than 84,591 guests to experience 46 cultural displays which highlighted some of the ways cultures reflect on the holidays around the world. Guests enjoyed engaging narratives and special displays from Ghana, Vietnam, Finland and Germany. Snow-flocked trees and the glimmer of ornaments completed this winter wonderland.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS
The Stuart and Barbara Padnos Rooftop Sculpture Garden is a beautiful, unique space. Full of varied plantings, this garden provides biodiversity and habitat for birds, butterflies and insects. It features a rotating display of world-class sculpture and connects people through modern, accessible design. In May this 15,000 square foot garden transformed the roof of the Covenant Learning Center. This new garden is markedly different in a number of ways. A clean, modern design creates a distinctly urban space that highlights vistas to the wetland and boardwalk and has been designed as a beautiful, flexible space for events and gatherings. On hot summer days, this garden will keep the Covenant Learning Center cooler than a traditional roof that would have typically been a black waterproof membrane or tar and gravel roof surface. In the winter, the soil and plants become an insulating blanket, helping to moderate temperature changes. The plantings within this garden will provide insulation to the building below, create cooler surfaces within the planted spaces and the trees will provide shade for garden enjoyment. Meijer Gardens has been a leader in stormwater management practices and this garden continues in that tradition. The rooftop garden acts as a sponge, soaking up rainwater. Over a dozen varieties of Sedum are combined to create colorful arcs, ribbons and sweeps that pull the viewer through this space. This variable sedum ground plain is interplanted with dozens of perennial plant varieties, many of which are native to the upper midwestern United States. These perennials grow up through the sweeps of sedum, providing a changing ebb and flow of texture and color throughout the growing season. A river of ornamental grass flows through the center of the garden and four types of native trees break up the space into places of discovery, revealing views of the wetlands and providing smaller, more intimate areas for sitting and relaxing on the multiple benches throughout.
Our sculpture programs and exhibitions are a central focus of the Frederik Meijer Gardens & Sculpture Park mission.

A NATIONAL TREASURE: FRED MEIJER, HIS COLLECTION AND LEGACY

February 1–August 25, 2019

Few American cultural philanthropists have had such a transformative impact on regional, national and international audiences as Frederik G.H. Meijer. Thanks to his legacy of extraordinary support and open-minded approach to collecting significant works of sculpture, the permanent collection at Frederik Meijer Gardens & Sculpture Park is regularly celebrated as one of the world’s finest and an ongoing source of enjoyment to legions of visitors from every walk of life. A National Treasure: Fred Meijer, His Collection and Legacy honored Fred Meijer’s history as a collector and philanthropist and his immense contributions to both Meijer Gardens and the greater Grand Rapids community. The exhibition presented a historical perspective of Fred’s life and debuted several never-before-seen acquisitions. Sharing his renowned collection gave Fred great joy. Once on a tour with former President Jimmy Carter, Fred humbly suggested that Meijer Gardens was becoming a regional asset, to which the former president paused and said, “No, Fred, you are building a National Treasure.” Timed to coincide with the centenary of Fred's birth, this landmark exhibition charted the milestones of a collector and his collection—one of the most compelling stories in American cultural history.

REBECCA LOUISE LAW: THE WOMB

September 20, 2019–March 1, 2020

British installation artist Rebecca Louise Law is recognized internationally for her colossal floral sculptures. Using both fresh and dried plant material and flora, Law’s site-specific installations dazzle the senses. In this immersive exhibition, designed exclusively for Meijer Gardens, Law explored the relationship between humanity and nature. The installation, a stunning collection of floating florals centered around a central womb, was meant to make the viewer feel ensconced in nature. Strung by hand with her signature copper wire, an incredible one million flowers and plants were on display, with an additional 10,000 flowers and plants gathered from Meijer Gardens’ grounds. A big believer in sustainability, Law also reused dried plant material that had been displayed in her previous installations. The natural decay of the plant material made the exhibition time-based and encouraged frequent visits to observe the process of drying. Accompanying the larger installation was a collection of glass sculpture and paintings exploring the theme of the womb. Though photography was allowed in certain places, guests were encouraged to put their cell phones and cameras aside and fully engage with the exhibition.
EDUCATION

Classes, tours, events, and public programs throughout the year engaged learners of all ages in creative thinking and educational discovery.

PROGRAMS FOR ADULTS:
In the 2019 fiscal year, adult learners at Meijer Gardens explored their curiosity and expanded their knowledge of gardens, sculpture, the natural environment and the arts. Four major lectures, including the Physician as Writer Lecture, the C. Schoenknect and W. Paul Sculpture Lecture, the Secchia Garden Lecture, and the Wege Environmental Lecture drew a total of approximately 1,700 guests to experience exciting presentations from speakers at the top of their fields of study. Public programs for the sculpture exhibitions Process and Presence: Contemporary Disability Sculpture; A National Treasure: Fred Meijer, His Collection and Legacy and Rebecca Louise Law: The Womb provided smaller, focused talks, sculpture walks, and guided art-making sessions designed to engage guests in learning about the works of art featured in these three very different but equally rich sculpture exhibitions.Narrated tram tours and docent-led walking tours offered another touchpoint for guests to learn about the Meijer Gardens sculpture and plant collections. Additionally, the Education Department coordinated six full-day bus trips, ten plant shows, four seasonal book group discussions, a special film program, and dozens of classes to suit every interest, hosted in the bright and inspiring classrooms of the new Covenant Learning Center.

PROGRAMS FOR SCHOOLS:
27,000 students and chaperones visited Meijer Gardens in the 2019 fiscal year, the first full year in which the new Covenant Learning Center was open and available to host programs and activities for our school group guests. Several new and revised classroom activities for schools embraced educational technology such as iPads, a SMART board, and digital microscopes to elevate and enrich the student field trip experience. A new format for the scripts for docent-led tours placed a heightened emphasis on utilizing inquiry methods to engage students in learning through close observation and critical thinking. In addition, feedback gleaned from the 2018–2019 Teacher Advisory Committee provided valuable insights for the Meijer Gardens Education Department team as they work to develop new programs for the future. As in past years, all fourth and sixth grade students enrolled in the Grand Rapids Public Schools participated in grant-funded educational programs during the 2019 fiscal year—The Art and Science of Observation for the fourth graders, and Fitness Fun in the Sculpture Park for the sixth graders. All Head Start students in Kent County were invited to participate in a day of experiential learning in the Lena Meijer Children’s Garden. Transportation and admissions assistance scholarships were awarded to many other Title 1 schools to defray the costs of their visit to Meijer Gardens, and a newly reworked and improved Youth and Family Nonprofit Grant Assistance Program allowed for ten local nonprofit organizations serving youth and family audiences to receive grant assistance providing a complimentary visit to Meijer Gardens.

PROGRAMS FOR CHILDREN AND FAMILIES:
Learning through joyful discovery is a key component of educational experiences for children and families at Meijer Gardens. During the 2019 fiscal year, the Education Department team offered 30 summer camps for children ages 4–14, plus approximately 20 other “Grandparent and Me” and children’s classes. Activities and events in the Lena Meijer Children’s Garden, which celebrated its 15th birthday in 2019, provided plentiful opportunities for hands-on learning throughout the year. Butterfly dress-up and puppet shows in the spring, daily themed activities led by special guest presenters all summer long, and special events like Winter Family Day, Hallowee-Ones, and Earth Day festivities drew thousands of guests to engage in fun and foundational informal learning experiences. Michigan’s Farm Garden, too, offered up plenty of family fun, including guided springtime walks, themed events like Amazing Honey Bees Weekend, and Fridays at the Farm activities. Families hopped aboard the Kids’ Tram in the summer months for the Discover It! Tour—a 45-minute exploratory journey through the Sculpture Park. Back indoors, events like Cozy Tales for Winter Days story times, the annual Animal Adventures collaboration with the John Ball Zoo, and the Who Am I: A Butterfly Ballet partnership with the Grand Rapids Ballet, provided opportunities for colder-weather learning experiences. Finally, the exhibition Inside/Outside: An Interactive Sculpture Experience for Families in the Snell Sculpture Education Center was a hotspot for families to participate in independent exploratory play.
